APRIL 1 LAST DAY FOR COTTON CUT

"Our Town"

by J. B. WHITE

It is an interesting privilege to meet with the Future Farmers. On last Friday night I heard these young future business men of the soil give an accounting of their work as students of vocational agriculture. I was happy to accept the invitation of John Calvin Haygood, toastmaster at the annual banquet for fathers and sons held in Ada Henderson school. J. D. Parnell, teacher of vocational agriculture, shares so large in the importance of this work that to him went the praise of both students and board members.

Progress in teaching better farm methods has been rapid. The class numbers almost a hundred. In future years farming will be a business at which trained men will work. They will be able to conquer enemies of the soil and turn waste into production and enrich the nation. From aimless tillage will evolve an intelligent system of farming, a balanced income and a happier existence for rural people.

Although agriculture is the oldest and most important of human occupations, it was not until a comparatively recent date that it was provided with scientific training. Importance of stock raising and dairy farming to the medevial peoples in Denmark led to the establishment of veterinary hospital in Copenhagen in 1773. Desire to apply special training to farm life led to an agricultural chair in the university of Edenburgh in 1790, and a chair of rural economy was established at Oxford in 1796. In Germany, France and Austria the business of teaching farmers began as early at 1799.

In the United States where agriculture has led the world in mass production of important crops special training has gained rapidly from early beginnings. Columbia College in New York led out in 1792 with a professorship and natural history study in Harvard University in 1801 followed. The first practical school of agriculture was the Gardiner Lyceum in Maine. It received a grant of money from the state and opened in 1823. Its equipment included a farm similar to our modern farm colleges. Another school opened at Derby, Connecticut in 1826 and in 1846 a chair of agricultural chemistry and vegetable physiology was established in Yale University.

The state of Michigan provided in her constitution for an agricultural college. Near Lansing the new capital the site was selected and in 1857 the first public agricultural college in America was opened. Agricultural colleges were opened in Maryland and Pennsylvania in 1859. In 1862 the federal government took cognizance of the need for a better system in agriculture and President Lincoln signed the Merrill Land Grant Act that set aside 30,000 acres in each state for each United States Senator and Congressman. The proceeds from the lands were to endow farm colleges. Developments have been rapid. In 1920 there were 67 such colleges and 123,000 students enrolled with the value of the schools placed at $184,400,000.

The movement that has gained the greatest headway has been the teaching of vocational agriculture in the public schools such as now claims the attention of Future Farmers in Cameron. Many states now require it. From these early advancements dating from medevial times farming has undergone as rapid change as any phase of our national life. The citizen who owns and tills the world's soil holds within his scope the destiny of all men.

From ancient times, even in early Bible history, we follow with interest the old engagement of farming. In the pages of this Book some of the world's finest literature is built around the peoples, who knowing nothing of the far away age when

FIRING ON AUTO PARTY IS PROBED

TWO NEGROES HELD AFTER SHOT GOES THROUGH HAIR OF WOMAN ON HIGHWAY

Weldon Wynn and George Touchstone, negroes, are under arrest and held in the Milam County jail, as suspects in what officers believe may have been an attempt to kill Mr. and Mrs. Goetz of Buckholts Sunday night as they drove along the highway near Ellison Ridge.

A shot that passed through Mrs. Goetz's hair, was fired through their car. As the auto party passed a post a man was seen standing half hidden in the shadow and as the car moved by the shot was fired.

Mr. and Mrs. Goetz and her father were in the car and were badly frightened. They drove to Thorndale and reported the shooting. They had been to Taylor and on their way home were driving on the highway at Ellison Ridge.

Sheriff R. M. Kennedy was notified and with Constable F. J. Gant at Thorndale, made an immediate investigation. Bloodhounds were brought in from another county but the trail of the man who fired the shot could not be found.

In the investigation the negroes were arrested. Sheriff Kennedy told the Herald late Wednesday that the negroes were not more than 100 yards from the scene of the shooting and while no evidence warrants a charge thus far, he is holding them as suspects.

Tuition Charge Statement Is Made by School Board

The laws of the State of Texas divide the various counties of the State into school districts which are responsible for the education of the children between the ages of six to eighteen.

It is the responsibility of a school district to finance the education of the children within its own limits. It has been held by the State that one district can not legally accept the pupils of another free or without tuition, as it was taxing the property of one district to take care of the pupils of another district.

Seventy-four grammar school pupils have transferred from various districts of the county into the Ada Henderson school of Cameron for their grammar school education. The State transfer money of these pupils pays for the education of these children for four and one-half months and they are permitted to come to the Cameron School free for that length of time.

The expense of educating these children the remainder of the time must come from one of two sources, either the taxpayers of the City of Cameron, or in the form of a tuition paid by the parents.

The Superintendent and School Board of Cameron, viewing this matter from a business standpoint, have decided that the only fair solution to this problem was to collect a tuition fee for each pupil in the amount of the expense to the Cameron district.

In view of this fact it was ordered that a tuition of three dollars and fifty cents be collected each month for four and one-half months or the privileges of the school withdrawn from those pupils who did not pay.

It is not the intention of the school authorities to be hard on any one. The tuition was fixed at the minimum amount to pay the expense of each pupil and not with the view of making any money for the school district.

It should not be hard for anyone to see that it is unjust for a school district to take care of seventy-four pupils, one seventh of its enrollment, at its own expense when the pupils are the legal charge of another district.

I am sure that it is the wish of every one officially connected with the Cameron Schools that this matter be looked upon as a just and necessary move in order that the Cameron district may have sufficient finances to meet the needs of the school and increase the number of teachers when the number of pupils enrolled requires an increase in the number of teachers.

Sincerely yours,
E. A. PERRIN, Superintendent of Cameron Schools.

APRIL 1 LAST DATE TO REGISTER CARS

Automobile registrations were far below average listing as the dead line approached for payment of the 1935 license fees at the office of Bill Alex Bonds, tax collector.

April 1 is the last date on which cars may be registered and figures released this week by Mr. Bonds show that only about one third of the cars and trucks in the county have been registered.

During the registration period in 1934 a total of 5073 cars, 612 trucks and 460 farm trucks were registered. Up to March 25 this year the office had registered only 1800 automobiles, 150 trucks and 85 farm trucks.

Car oweners will save much time by going at once and presenting their 1934 registration receipts and getting the new plates.

Hefley-Dossett, insurance agency, has won the award of distinction for Cameron given by the Texas Fire Insurance Department.

"Not Responsible" Says Sheriff Of Bar Raids Here

Sheriff R. M. Kennedy raised an objection to the news story last week in the Herald about the recent liquor raids.

He said the article left the impression that he had made these raids before the grand jujry had taken any action. He disclaims responsibility for the developments but after the grand jury had summoned him along with other officers they carried out instructions.

All papers necessary for the raids had been prepared and were held in readiness and no raid was made by Sheriff Kennedy until after the grand jury had convened and commanded him and other officers to do so.

First Liquor Case Postponed To-Day

The case against N. J. Green of Rockdale, growing out of the recent liquor raids enforced by the grand jury, was postponed when called in District court this morning.

Absence of material witnesses caused postponement of the case. A J. Lewis, former criminal district attorney, is counsel for Mr. Green.

J. D. Parnell, instructor for the class in vocational agriculture was praised by classmen as well as guest speakers for his successes in teaching so many fundamental needs of a better balanced farm life.

Fresh from their recent triumph at Houston where they won first honors in judging the team was roundly applauded. This week the team came back from McGregor with first honors.

It was an annual father and son

BANZHAF EXTENDING TIME FOR FARMERS

Geo. Banzhaf, county agent, has announced an extension in the time for signing cotton contracts for 1935 to April 1. The Herald has received the following letter from the county agent:

"In spite of the fact that March 26th has been set as the dead line for Milam County farmers to make application for 1935 Cotton Contracts or renew old ones, the deadline has been moved to April 1st. Which is absolutely the final date.

"This allows all farmers ample time to make necessary changes and send contracts back to the County office. With this deadline, contracts will probably get ahead of the rush at Washington and secure payment in a minimum time.

"Contract signers with any problems may appear before county Committee, and discuss them."

Geo. Banzhaf.

HORSTMANN ASKING SUPPORT OF PEOPLE

On Tuesday April 2 three Aldermen will be elected. Responding to many pledges of support from my friends and neighbors I became a candidate for one of the three places. I am grateful to the many who have become interested in my candidacy.

I have had very little time to devote to my candidacy and due to the limited time remaining before the election it will be impossible for me to make a canvas of the voters. I take this method of expressing my thanks to those who have pledged their support and in making this acknowledgement I earnestly solicit the vote and support of all the people assuring each one that their vote will be greatly appreciated.

As a citizen and tax payer I am interested in the welfare of the city and by reason of this interest you have my assurance that if elect-

Sunday School Revivalist To Visit County in May Leading Baptist Program

Ours is a day of experts, artists, skillful operators and exacting publics. The man who succeeds today must be an exceller in his field of work. Life to some is a game, to many a drudge, but to Christians, is a plan intricately drawn by a divine Projector. Practice demands a knowledge of something to be practiced. Knowledge requires a Knower who would practice. And a Knower, to project a practice must have willing Hearers who would like to learn the practice, therefore, as he knows, as he has practiced, and as Milam Baptist Association is willing to learn. Officers and teachers in Sunday Schools over the Association look forward to the coming of W. J. Lites.

He is an artist in teaching the practice, Sunday School teaching .As Associate Missionary of the Baptist Sunday School Department of Texas he comes to Milam Baptist Association in May to conduct a Sunday School Revival.

FINDS VALUABLE ARCHIVES

Jerusalem. — Porcelain archives, 2,500 to 2,900 years old, apparently belonging to the leading Prince of Judah, were recently discovered by a British archaeological expedition, headed by J. L. Starkey. The find was regarded as of vast importance in corroboration of Bible stories during the pre-Solomon area. The archives are in Hebrew script of the ancient variety, in choice Biblical language and dated prior to the first temple era. The discovery was made at Tel Adduweir, midway between Beersheba and Gaza.

Has 100 Acres In Cantaloupes Now Planted On Brazos

Red Riley, former resident of Milano, was in Cameron Saturday looking after business. He reports great progress on his Brazos Valley farm near Hearne recently purchased.

Mr. Riley is one of the pioneers of the cantaloupe industry in the county. This year he has planted 100 acres in the Brazos bottom to cantaloupes. Mr. Riley paid a fancy price for this land but feels he can make more money planting cantaloupes than cotton, although the land has made as high as one bale to the acre.

Texas needs more business men like Mr. Riley. His farm is located near the bridge on the road between Gause and Hearne.

BAER PLANS TWO FIGHTS.

MEETS GERMAN ABROAD

ONE WINS; MANY LOSE.

PUBLICITY FOR CUP RULES.

BOBBY JONES PREPARES.

HELEN MOODY PLAYS.

CUNNINGHAM SUPREME.

SCORES DOUBLE VICTORY.

Max Baer, after a fight in this country in the early summer will go to London to give battle to Max Schmeling, if he retains the championship, according to Walter Rothenburg, German promoter of the Schmeling-Hamas heavyweight battle in Berlin. The Arrangement is confirmed by Ancil Hoffman's, Baer's manager, who pertinently points out that the whole scheme is dependent upon the deposit of $300,000, the agreed payment, to Baer's credit in a bank in this country.

The proposal to fight in Berlin was vetoed, said Hoffman because he learned that after deducting taxes there only about $75,000 would be available for export to the United States. If the fight can be staged in London it is doubtful whether Schmeling would get anything for his end besides the crack at the title.

Newspapers last week carried headlines proclaiming that Harry Topser of Jersey City, won $7,205.40 on a double play-off at Miami, Florida. He coupled the winners of the first and third races on a two dollar ticket, and having the only one of its kind, received what book-makers say is a record pay-off for the United States. The nearest is said to be $6,600 at Aurora, Ill. Notice that this got big headlines and remember that the thousands who put their money on other tips got no mention —they got no cash.

Dan O'Mahoney, Ireland's candidate in the grunt and groan profession, is getting along. He recently defeated Jim Browning, former title holder, in 22 minutes, 31 seconds. He has scored a number of victories and friends say he is the man to take the crown that has been worn for so long by Jim Londos, the Greek who has made a fortune showing the wrestling fans how it should be done.

Charles E. Nicholson, who designed T. O. M. Sopwith's Endeavor, which failed to beat the Rainbow for America's cup, charges that the New York Yacht club rules "autocratically" and makes complaint about the measuring of the boats. Smiles greet the acusion on this side of the water where those who ought to know declare that effective use of the Genoa jibs on the Rainbow and poorer use of them on the Endeavor decided the races. Anyway the details of arranging for cup matches should be opened up and not carried on secretly as has been the habit of the yacht club here. In view of the international interest taken in the outcome of the races and cards should be laid on the table and kept there.

Barney Ross, world's lightweight champion will defend his title this summer against Lou Ambers, a free swinger from Herkimer, N. Y., who was named outstanding challenger by the New York boxing commission. The battle will probably be staged by the Free Milk Fund at one of the baseball stadiums. . . . Mike Jacobs, who gets up the fights for the charity events, says he has also signed Joe Louis, the Detroit Negro sensation, for three bouts this summer and that he will make his first appearance in New York in July.

Bobby Jones, golf wizard, who scored a grand slam in 1930, is busy practicing for the Augusta tournament, which begins on April 4th. The old master was nominated to win the event at his club last year but he finished in a tie for twelfth. Too much practice, just before the matches, it is said to have been the reason, although the champion, after a lay-off, had the odds against him, not to mention an outstanding array of seasoned campaigners. This year he will face the stiffest competition but he goes to the starting post without being handicapped by the "certain to win" dope. Bobby was a popular golfer and a champion liked by the public, who will not mind a bit if he comes through next month.

Primo Carnera, ponderous man mountain from the land of the Alps, came through his first test recently by scoring a technical knockout over Ray Impellitre who was saved additional punishment when his manager jumped through the ropes to stop the fight. For this the boxing commission gave him a suspension but the referee gave the fight to Primo, who was apparently unable to knock the big boy down for the count. Impelletiere was helpless.

Swinging her racket and racing over the courts for the first time since an injury to her back forced her out of the national championships in 1933 Mrs. Helen Wills Moody indicates that she is ready to plan a campaign for new laurels. While she did not attempt a regular game in her workout the former champion said the injury did not bother her. No set future plans have been made as they will have to depend upon how she developes although the idea is that she will become an international competitor again.

Glenn Cunningham answered all the questions and queries recently when he scored an outstanding double barrelled victory on the track at New York, closing the indoor season with wins over Chuch Hornbostel in the 1,000 yard feature and, an hour later, taking the mile for Gene Venzke, of Penn. The great Kansan faced the almost equally great Hoosier over a route that was considered Hornbostel's own and won, but he had to set a new world's record to keep ahead of his rival. Cunningham's time was 2:10.1, removing from the books the record set by Hal Cutbill years ago.

Only a scant two yards separated Cunningham and Hornbostel as they thundered to a great finish. The latter also broke the former record, finishing in 2:10.3 and something of an iron man himself came back later to run a blazing 600 yards in 1:12.7. His performance was only just a trifle behind that of the great Kansan, who, however, it must be said, demonstrated his supremacy against the best of them all. Track history does not record a pair of twin triumphs that can quite match the victories of Cunningham.

The baseball front is about the same as it was last week. The scribes are writing letters for the newspapers at home, telling of the chances of the teams and the fans at home are eating it up. They will find out the answer when the first few weeks change the attack from words to ball and bat. Exhibition games draw fair crowds and Babe Ruth continues to prove the favorite wherever he happens to be. Next week, or maybe the week after, we will try and give the line-up on the outlook.

Washington News For Milam County Farmers

From Cameron Herald's Washington Bureau

GREED DANGEROUS

COMMON INTEREST

HORSES ARE FEWER

COTTON CONTROL STAYS

FARMS INCREASING

Farmers testing the subsides of government funds, in return for various participation in crop control measures, are apt to be like all other beneficiaries of special favors and having enjoyed a bite, demand a fuller meal.

Secretary Wallace has pointed out this danger in several addresses and last week he emphasized the temptation for a group to "overplay its hand." He made plain his opposition to "scarcity economics," which was taken by some observers to be directed to the efforts of tobacco growers to continue the 40 per cent acreage cut of last year.

Corn and tobacco, it is said, are the only two basic farm commodities now selling above parity, which was the declared goal of the emergency restrictions of the A. A. A.

Improved industrial output, meaning increased purchasing power in the cities, will mean improved markets for farm products. Also, improved conditions on our farms mean a greater demand for industrial products.

The groups have, it seems, interests in common, although just where the line exists that marks the limit is not clear. Industrial production is said to be up to 65 per cent of what it was in 1929 while farm output is up to 5 per cent.

Just when the farmers have parity with workers is uncertain, at least to this writer, but, at the same time, there can be no permanent gain for agriculture if it pursues a policy of trying to hord up the rest of the nation. Already there is grumbling about advancing food prices and if they go too high the consumers will cut down consumption. Plenty of food and farm products at fair prices is best for the whole country, as well as the workers and producers.

There is a ten million shortage of horses and mules on the farms and ranches of the nation, says J. O. Williams, senior animal husbandman for the department of agriculture.

When the United States entered the World War there were 21,500,000 animals, but the figure has now dropped to 12,000,0000 and attention is being given to plans to encourage breeding of work horses and mules.

No change is contemplated in the cotton control program, which is gradually whittling down the annual carry-over. It was 13,000,000 bales in 1932, 10,500,000 bales last August, and is expected to be around 7,500,000 bales in 1936. President Roosevelt and Secretary Wallace are in entire sympathy with the program, and the latter declares "it is obvious from the past policies that we are not going to allow the purchasing power of the Southern planters to be wrecked; it means too much to the prosperity of the rest of the country."

Reducing output to boost prices has been practiced by industry ruthlessly for years, but when the same rule was applied to agriculture the air was filled with condemnation of the practice. Even so, the dangers are apparent to all and the hope of securing concerted action that will make possible the use of all that American industry and agriculture can produce is what leads the nation as a whole to look for brighter days ahead. No one faction, be it labor, business, farmers or bankers, can have everything and prosper indefinitely.

Partial reports from 288 counties indicate that farms are increasing.

Any tract of three or more acres or that produced as much as $250 worth of food products in a year, are classified as farms by the Census Bureau, which is now undertaking a survey of the farm situation.

In 1930, in the nearly 300 counties, there were 384,327 farms. By January 1st, of this year, the number had gone up to 414,613.

The interdependence of the economic interests of the nation is evident when something happens to a commodity, like cotton. When the market broke about two weeks ago there was a shiver along the entire financial set-up, with wheat and government bonds showing the tremble.

The danger exists that America will lose a part of its foreign cotton market on account of adverse world trade conditions. This is seen when we remember that in 1919, 1920 and 1924 cotton exports exceeded a billion dollars, but in 1933 the figure was only $342,698,781. Moreover, other sections are feverishly stimulating the production of cotton.

industry would claim man's attention, clung to the bosom of a friendly earth. Agriculture as it relates to the race holds the background of time's most interesting story of men. History enhances our appreciation for this engaging subject. The romance of the world's fields permeates our literature and has given to places of service in the conomy of the race, mankind's most gigantic figures.

It is not unusual that man, who for centuries has struggled to better himself, has been kind to the soil into which may always plunge his hands and be sustained. It is not strange then that we of this intelligent century should view with pride increased interest in better farming. As we encourage by public money and community interest the study of vocational agriculture, we will send to our farms, the advantageous abode of men, our boys, instead of the crowded marts of industry where opportunity has long since lost out to surplus populations.

One may without the aid of imagination visualize in this nation a happy and secure people when the day dawns for more intelligent farm life. The sun of promise never sets on the soil when to its haven men turn to find for themselves and their families peace and plenty.

The Future Farmers of Yoe High School and to succeeding classes who inherit in time advanced opportunities, we say God speed. We can trust to your knowledge, character and intelligence, the destiny of agriculture and take courage in the reassurance that from these precincts of learning has issued a sane program for future national security.

banquet and a large number of fathers attended with their sons. John Calvin Haygood, head of the class was toastmaster and introduced the speakers and paid a tribute to the fathers. This tribute was responded to by his father, J. W. Haygood in a fine tribute to the boys.

Rev. O. C. Acrey, pastor if First Presbyterian church, made the principal address, a touching talk on the relations of father and son. The welcome address was delivered by E. A. Perrin, superintendent of of schools. Guy T. Newton, county superintendent, responded to the address of welcome.

Talks were made by J. B. White, editor of the Cameron Herald, J. C. Martin, president of the school board. Mr. White gave a historical sketch of scientific advances in teaching better farming. Mr. Martin delighted the banquet with a discourse on tobacco raising in Kentucky.

Roy Mabry of the judging team gave a toast to the fathers which was one of the features of the evening. Of especial interest was the address by Marcellus Dragoo and A. W. Lucas who told about the Houston visit and judging team experiences in general .

Gordon Lowe, high school student, gave musical selections on harmonica. Mr. Parnell, the last to speak, said he had never lived in any place where he had made so many friends in so short a time. Mrs. Parnell shared the honors of the banquet and had charge of decorations.

F. S. Lesovsky and Dr. T. E. Crump, board members, were guests. Mothers of the students prepared the banquet. Blue and gold streamers carried out the color scheme and Wisteria blossoms gae a colorful effect to the dining room.

BAPTIST CHURCH EVENTS

During the past week the Baptist Training Union has conducted six courses of study in various phases of the work. The latest information states that 102 people were enrolled for the courses. This is by far the largest number that this church has ever had for this hard working organization. Mrs. W. B. Skelton is the director, and was assisted by the following teachers: Mrs. Fred Graves, Mrs. A. R. McClaren, Mrs. C. R. Law, Prof. Wiese, Mr. Duckworth and Rev. Timmerman. Mr. Preston Graves is associate director.

The Sunday morning preaching service will be centered in the thought of Missions. The sermon will be on this topic "Why I Am a Missionary."

The sermon topic for Sunday evening will be "The Home Destroyers Vs. Heaven's Helpers." Who are they, and what do they look like, and do we have any in Cameron? Come and hear about the whole matter.

Just a few days ago the Intermediate Union of the BTU had a nice outing at Ledbetter Park, right in the midst of the beautiful new adornments of this latest venture of civic pride, and they had a mighty good time. Mrs. Wm. Fanning, Mr. and Mrs. Kuehl and Mr. Leeman Wilson had charge. Now, this week, the same group of Intermediates who are having a big time in the study course are going to climax with another social fling in the same attractive Ledbetter Park.

We welcome strangers and visitors to our services, and other church people when they do not have services in their own church.

Kept Taking Cardui Until She Got Rid of the Severe Pains

When Mrs. Ida Hege, of Edinburg, Ind., was in a painful, run-down condition, she took Cardui, with the results she describes below: "I had just been what one might say dragging around, feeling miserable and all out of sorts. I remembered how Cardui helped my aunt. I sent for six bottles of Cardui and when I had taken them, I was much better and stronger. I did not suffer so much pain. I continued taking Cardui until I had taken nine bottles. I do not have the severe pains." . . . Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

NOW YOU CAN HAVE

Air Conditioned

REFRIGERATION

Fresh, pure air . . . constantly circulated at just the right temperature and humidity to keep your food in perfect condition. That's modern air-conditioned refrigeration with ice!

Odorless, Tasteless Refrigeration!

Odorless . . . because the constantly changing air freshens the interior of the modern ice refrigerator, thus removing strong odors. This air-conditioning process makes it possible to place, in open vessels, butter or milk, in the same storage space with onions, cabbage, or other foods with a distinctive odor. The air-washing effect of the melting ice carries all odors out of your refrigerator. Each food retains its own individual flavor. Ask your ice dealer to demonstrate this new method of refrigeration to you.

Sunday School Lesson

THE HEAVENLY FATHER

International Sunday School Lesson for April 7, 1935

Golden Text: "As a father pitieth his children, so the Lord pitieth them that fear him."—Psalm 103:13.

(Lesson Text: John 14:8-24)

The lessons of the second quarter are designed to give better understanding of some of the great Christian teachings and to apply them to life today.

Our first lesson refers us to various scriptural passages, designed to increase our knowledge of the nature and nearness of God. These are: Psalm 103:1-5, 10-14; Isiah 40:27-31; Matthew 6:24-34; Luke 11:2; John 3:3-6; 3:40-47; 14:1-31; Romans 8:14-17; Hebrews12:5-11.

"It takes a trained eye to see the unseen—but it can be done," says Griffin W. Bull. "The Indian sees a trail in a broken twig; it is as plain to him as Broadway is to us, but we do not see it. The scholar sees the history of the nation in the heiroglyphics; we see nothing of the imprisoned thoughts; we only see the crooked characters, which mean nothing to us. The devout soul sees God in a thousand providences which others pass by as meaningless. They look for him in the right places—heaven is not in some of the haunts we visit."

"Men could not gaze at the works of God without being reminded of His power and God-head," says J. D. Jones. "The world inevitably suggested the thought of a Creator. But you can never learn a person's character from the works of his hands. The real secrets of personality can never be disclosed by means of things. Personality can only express itself through personality. God could never disclose his nature by means of the stars. He could never reveal his heart in storm and tempest. It was only in and through a Person that God could reveal to men his real name and nature. In Christ God has made himself known."

Jesus told his disciples that he would prepare a place for them. "Whatever the many mansions may mean besides," says A. B. Bruce, "they do at least imply that there is a state of happy existence to be reached by believers, as He in whom they believe reached it, viz., through death, The life everlasting, whatever its conditions, is undoubtedly taught here. And it is taught with authority. Jesus does more than maintain the affirmative on the subject of the life to come. He speaks thereon with oracular confidence, offering to us not the frail raft of a probable opinion, whereon we may perilously sail down the stream of life towards death; but the strong ship of a divine word, wherein one may sail securely, for which Socrates and his companions sighed."

In the Sermon on the Mount Jesus warned against anxiety, for this is the meaning of the words translated "take no thought." "The warning of Jesus against care is in no sense applicable to the reasonable forethought," says Joseph Muir. "Man cannot live his life like the birds and the flowers, without a sense of the present necessity and the impending future. He can and must think, plan, and toil. The forethought and the work necessary to provide food and raiment for himself and for those dependent upon him, are part of the divine discipline of character. A careless life would be essentially a godless life. But Christ's reproofs are directed against all feverishness and distraction of mind."

"To many people God is only a vague Being in whom they dimly believe, but with whom they have no dealings," says Harry Emerson Fosdick. "They have heard of him, but it is like the voice of many astronomers saying that there are rings about Saturn. Men believe it who never saw the rings. They believe it but the rings have no influence on their lives. They believe it, but they have no personal dealings with the object of their faith. So men think that God is, but they neer have met him. Nothing is real to us except those things with which we habitually deal. Men say they do not pray because to them God is not real because what they mean generally is that God is not real because they do not pray.

"How can God be real to us? What conditions have we fulfilled that would make anybody real? Those earthly friendships have most vivid reality and deepest meaning for us where a constant sense of spiritual fellowship is refreshed occasionally by special reunions. The curtain that divides us from the thought of our friend is never altogether closed, but at times soul takes with soul in conscious fellowship. The friend grows real. We enter into new thankfulness for him, new appreciation of him, new intimacy with him. No friendship can sustain the neglect of such communion. Even God grows unreal, ceases to be our Unseen Friend and dwindles into a cold hypothesis to explain the world, when we forget communion."

APPLICATIONS FOR SEED LOANS HERE

Applications for Seed Loans are being taken for Milam County by Miss Emma Hardie, Committee Clerk whose office is above the Tax Collector's office in Cameron.

These loans are for non-relief farmers only and are from a special fund made available by the Federal Emergency Relief Administration for seed for spring planting of truck, forage and commercial crops.

No loans will be made to farmers who are able to obtain credit locally or elsewhere.

The same County Loan Committee will serve this loan that has heretofore functioned for the Crop Loan Office.

The farmer who is on the relief receives the necessary funds to finance his crop through J. E. Burleson, Rural Supervisor, who has an office in the Milam County Relief office.

Crop mortgages, non-disturbance agreements on workstock, and crop waivers are necessary in all cases.

This loan is to permit immediate planting of food, feed and commercial crops.

Louisa's Letter

TIDY HOUSE OR HAPPY HOME —WHICH?

Dear Louisa:

What do wives do to make their husbands tidy? In most respects my husband is ideal except for that fault. He never picks up his soiled clothes and he spills ashes all over the house. I spend a great deal of my time running after him and cleaning up. When I get at him about it he just tells me not to be a nagger and goes on doing the same things.

I've always kept a spotless house but it is almost impossible to do so with the kind of husband I have.

L. B. J.

Answer:

I may as well admit that I do not know how to cure a husband of the untidy habit. In fact, I have just such a man myself. It does help, I think, to have a plenty of ash trays convenient and to keep the soiled clothes hamper in the bath room, but I have long ago given up the hopeless task of keeping mine from throwing newspapers on the floor when he finishes with them and putting all of his trash on the mantels. I find that there is less wear and tear on one's nerves to pick up behind someone than to make a man who is "sot in his ways" do so.

It pays to work on the children and keep after them, and sometimes a man who has grown careless and is not just built that way can be corrected in time, but the inherently untidy man who has never been taught to wait on himself really offers a hopeles stask.

And, if that is your husband's only vice, you are a fortunate woman, at that. Did you ever stop to think that a spotless house is not the most important thing in the world, after all. If it is a question of an immaculate house or a happy home, my vote goes to the latter.

Yours,
LOUISA.

GYPSY TAKES $1,700

Baltimore, Ma.—Acting on the advice of a gypsy fortune teller, who claimed she could cure her of physical ailments, Louise Tyler, Negro, drew all of her money, $1,700, from the bank.

Taking a handker from her pocket the gypsy woman presumably wrapped the money in it mumbled a charm over it and gave instructions for Louise to wear the bag on her wrist overnight, which she did. When she opened the bag in the morning, she found in the place of the money a neatly folded newspaper.

1935 ELECTROLUX IS NOW ON DISPLAY

In the ranks of the hunger fighters are two Swedish scientists who provided the world with one of the most economical methods of safeguarding food in the home when they discovered how to freeze water with fire, according to Joe Furneaux, manager of the Community Natural Gas Co., who announced the opening of the spring showing of the new 1935 Electrolux gas refrigerators this week.

Undaunted by possibility of sudden death while delving into the mysteries of germs and elements which destroy mankind's food, hunger fighters have struggled ceaselessly against human starvation from the dawn of civilization.

There were the men who conquered ancient hunger by cultivating wild grass for its seed which has been developed into modern wheat and other cereals; the men who conquered the deadly hog cholera that once threatened the world pork supply; the tragic Kansan who after trudging over the world to find a wheat that would withstand blizzard, blistering sun, cloudbursts and drouth so America could have plenty of bread died penniless and unknown; and then the men who gave the housewives a method of protecting food from germs and natural deterioration in the home.

Automatic refrigeration, long recognized as an effective weapon against food enemies, has been the object of study by hunger fighters who toiled for centuries before discovering how to make it possible for every home. Electrolux gas refrigeration is believed the newest and certainly one of the most economical of all methods yet devised.

Beautiful, silent, efficient and economical are adjectives which best describe the new 1935 gas refrigerator, according to Mr. Furneaux. A small, absolutely noiseless gas flame freezes ice cubes, preserves food healthfully, and aids in reducing food costs for as little as 25c a week. The new gas refrigerator is now on display at local dealers and the gas company office.
